

Beautiful You

Alexandra Schmal

When the wind's chasing the clouds and the sun is coming out, when every single flower raise it's head, then there is You.

When the day's about to begin, and all the birds in this old town start to sing, oh, and when I rise and smile with all my heart then there is You.

All the people that I see, the books and papers that I read, the places that I've never been to, dreams and visions I fell into, all the corners of my mind, the wish of always being kind... You show me the right view....beautiful You!

When silence takes the place of talk, and those who went astray rethink the way of their walk. When every creature in this whole world holds it's breath then there is You.

All the chances that I take, the feelings I learned not to fake, the happiness, when I first met You, Your boldness and the way You are true, open ears whenever I speak, helping hands that loves to treat completely made me new...beautiful You!

The things we don't dare to speak out, when we just wanna scream and shout and all the things no one can see, what's deep inside and don't reveal, yes, only one can touch so deep that every beat that my heart beats longs to belong to
...beautiful You!